limbo

I didn't really want to be a fragment in your legacy I didn't plan to sleep with you but if its what you want, then it's what I'll do somewhere in a canyon between honor and honesty a promise is a lifetime can you imagine how those stars aligned?

I don't have a name for the type of guiltless shame, oh is there more to this than what we'd ever admit? now I'm on the edge, I don't know how this ends not how I was raised to live, there's not much more that I can give so it'll never be the same after a kind of thing that never had a name in limbo but not lost Bet you're not too far off I don't know what i heard but I hope you get what you deserve and I hate when you cry hollow behind those eyes hold the weight of right & wrong it's better but not gone people wax and wane the truth remains the same don't want to tempt fate kinda thing don't have a name chorus

i've never been good at looking you in the eye
i wrote this song instead of saying goodbye leave it at friend and forget the rest tuck my heart back in my chest

chorus